KEYMACRO is a MAC keylogger, being able to log every input keystroke into a log file. It captures anything typed on the keyboard including text, passwords and any special symbols like CTRL, F1, ALT, RSH, SHIFT etc. KEYMACRO can log both passwords and secure notes into a file as well. The program's spy features can be easily activated using a 3rd party 'Decoy Program' which shows up like any standard program on the computer. When the decoy is in use, your mouse, keyboard, mouse clicks and most windows will appear to be running just as normal. All keystrokes are stored in the same format as the windows save function. So for example, if you were typing in a word processor the keystrokes would be stored in the same file as the document itself. So if you saved a word document you would get all the keystrokes stored with it. KEYMACRO has a sophisticated logging engine that will monitor any incoming keystrokes and input into an encrypted log file as it is typed. KEYMACRO is able to capture both data on the keyboard and any text or passwords you type into the notepad. The password is captured as you type it so you don't have to save the password anywhere in plain text. All log entries are saved as plain text files, but there are also password protected log files where only KEYMACRO can read the log and decrypt the password. If you have a backup application already installed you can hook into it and use your keystrokes logged by KEYMACRO. KEYMACRO's logging engine is "World-Class" and features no delays for ANYTHING, KEYMACRO is rock solid and can deal with any keyboard and even palm rests. The software will work in ANY environment, it's 100% Windows based and works on any Windows OS from 98SE through to Windows 7. The program works on ANY keyboard and uses nothing of the "Mac OS X Keyboards". KEYMACRO supports the most common passwords used by individuals and companies alike. You can customize your keylog data to any pattern you wish, allowing you to log users passwords, emails and all text typed on the keyboard. You can even customize the logging to capture any application and program information you wish to log, and if you are a victim of a hacker you can now see who the hacker is. KEYMACRO will log into any Windows password manager including password manager programs 1d6a3396d6
